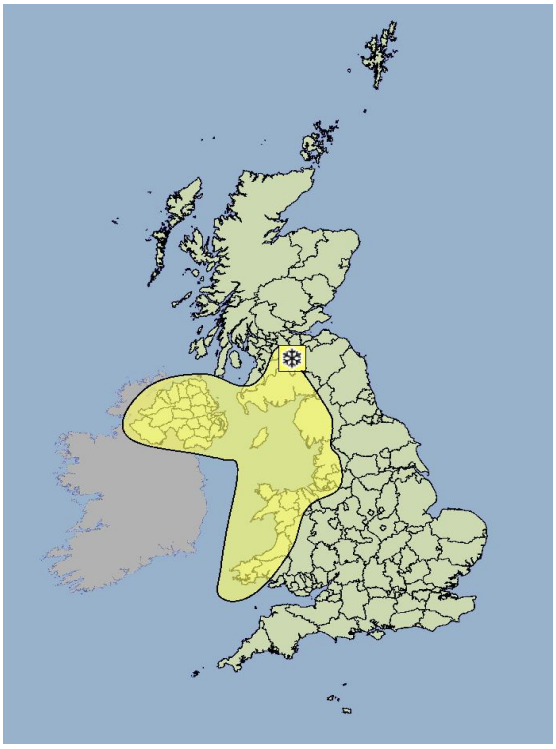
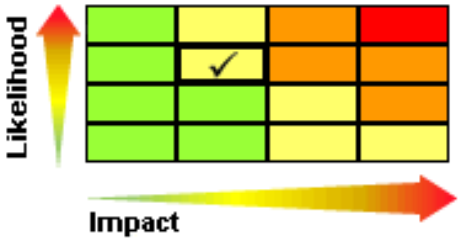
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A cold northwesterly airstream will be in place throughout Thursday bringing occasional snow showers. Around 2 cm of snow is possible even to low levels in places. 5-10 cm is possible on high ground above about 200 m.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Snow

Valid from 00:05 on Thu, 12th Jan 2017 until 23:55 on Thu, 12th Jan 2017

Northwesterly winds will bring occasional snow showers throughout Thursday, though these may clear from southern parts of Wales for a time.

There is the potential for disruption to transport networks with longer journey times. Icy stretches on roads and pavements are also possible.
